APA's National Planning Conference is the premier educational event for planners the world over. No other conference offers the depth and breadth you'll find here. With hundreds of sessions, workshops, mobile workshops, and special events, you'll find just what you're looking for. And with thousands of planners and officials in attendance, you'll meet people who can help you solve the problems on your desk today and take your career to the next level tomorrow.

Planning is the key to the national agenda. New nationwide initiatives—from sustainability to neighborhood revitalization to high-speed rail—are shaping the planning agenda. Be prepared with the latest information.

For 2010 we've reorganized and shortened the conference to make it more convenient for you. You'll still find the wide variety of intensive, unparalleled educational opportunities that make the National Planning Conference the conference of the year.

We've shortened this preliminary program as part of our organization-wide efforts to be more environmentally conscious. Use this program as an overview to get a sense of what the conference will be about this year. Then head to www.planning.org.

You'll find a new and improved conference website, with full details on all the sessions, workshops, mobile workshops, and networking opportunities that make the conference great. If you like, put together your conference schedule. Or go straight to registration, which we've streamlined this year—again, in response to your requests.

WHAT MAKES NEW ORLEANS THE PLACE TO BE IN 2010?

Come on down and find out!

A bustling neighborhood. An eye-opening streetcar ride. A front-porch conversation. It's the little things, the details, that make a place special. You'll find such little things in abundance in New Orleans, one of the great American cities.

As we complete our two-year journey from the headwaters of the Mississippi River to its delta, APA's National Planning Conference arrives in the Crescent City. Once there, we'll be taking a close look at what we can all learn about disaster recovery and climate change. And we'll examine the other lessons New Orleans holds for planners. The city will give us the opportunity to explore not only sustainability, but also plan making, historic preservation, tourism, and neighborhood planning.

New Orleans is a place where exciting ideas about green development are taking hold. New Orleans is a place where neighborhoods are finding new life. New Orleans is a place where you can see firsthand how planning matters. That's why, in 2010, New Orleans is the place to be.

Special Events

AICP Fellows Induction Ceremony and Reception (P001)

Saturday, 7:00–10:00 p.m.
Join the AICP College of Fellows as they welcome the 2010 class of distinguished members to their ranks. FEATURED SPEAKERS

Policy makers and respected thinkers will come together in New Orleans to share their thoughts on the biggest issues of the day. This year, speakers will discuss the environment, infrastructure, housing, political and social issues, and global concerns.

Ambassador Renée Jones-Bos

Renée Jones-Bos became ambassador of the Netherlands to the United States in 2008. She also served in the Dutch Embassy in Prague as the deputy chief of mission (1994–98), as first secretary at the embassy in Washington, D.C. (1987–90), and at the embassies in Dhaka and Paramaribo (1982–87).

HUD Secretary Shaun Donovan

Shaun Donovan, the 15th Secretary for Housing and Urban Development, has a strong commitment to make quality housing possible for every American. (Invited)

EPA Administrator Lisa P. Jackson

Lisa P. Jackson is the first African American to serve as Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. Her priorities include reducing greenhouse gas emissions, improving air quality, managing chemical risks, cleaning up hazardous waste sites, and protecting America's water. (Invited)

UN-Habitat Executive Director Anna Tibajuka

Anna Tibajuka has been the executive director of UN-HABITAT since 2000. She was the special coordinator for Least Developed Countries, Landlocked and Small Island Developing Countries at the U.N. Conference on Trade and Development. (Invited)

Senator Mary Landrieu

Mary Landrieu became the first woman from Louisiana elected to a full term in the U.S. Senate in 1996. She has been the leading voice in Washington for the Gulf Coast recovery effort in the wake of hurricanes Katrina and Rita.

VENTURE OUT

MOBILE WORKSHOPS AND TOURS

Venture out and see what makes New Orleans unique. Mobile Workshops offer the chance to see planning in action. Find out how New Orleans is focusing efforts on Gulf Coast recovery. Learn how communities worked together quickly to develop a post-Katrina master plan. Explore the intricate system of flood walls, pumping stations, gates, and levees keeping New Orleans dry. Get an introduction to the whole city with an orientation tour, or take part in a service project and make an impact on the New Orleans Community.

Many mobile workshops are biking, canoeing, running, or walking tours. They are a great way to see some of the best spots in New Orleans while getting a little exercise. Please be sure to bring appropriate clothing for your selected workshop.

APA Mobile Workshops will operate rain or shine. In the case of inclement weather, APA may alter a mobile workshop to ensure the safety of participants.

Delta Urbanism Symposium

Climate change is affecting coastal areas around the world, and no more dramatically than in delta regions. Many of the largest cities in the world are located in deltas. However, these attractive places to live are vulnerable to natural disasters whose magnitude appears to increase with climate change.

With the Mississippi Delta as a laboratory, the Delta Urbanism Symposium explores the growth, development, and management of cities in river deltas around the world, with a spotlight on solutions for balancing various—and often competing—goals: urbanization, economic development, flood defense, public safety, ecological balance, and quality of life. The symposium highlights the policies, tools, technology, coordinated planning, public outreach, and international cooperation—both current and emerging—to manage the future of all coastal cities. Sponsors: Lincoln Institute of Land Policy, National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, and the Royal Netherlands Embassy. Cosponsors: APA Green Communities Research Center and APA Hazards Planning Research Center.

REGISTER FOR APA'S NATIONAL PLANNING CONFERENCE TODAY!

Easy online registration: www.planning.org/conference

With hundreds of sessions, workshops, mobile workshops, and networking opportunities, APA's 2010 National Planning Conference is the conference of the year. With thousands of planners and planning officials from around the world in attendance, it's the place to be in 2010. Reserve your spot at the world's premier planning event today.

Registration

As part of our organization-wide effort to be more environmentally conscious, we have eliminated paper registration forms from this conference program. You can register for the conference on our new and improved conference website: www.planning.org/conference.

On the website, you'll find full details on all the conference activities and a new, interactive way to browse the conference program. You can build a personalized schedule or simply go straight to our streamlined registration page. Remember, APA members pay discounted rates for the conference. Be sure to have your APA ID on hand when you register.

SIGHTSEEING TOURS

The Big Easy. Sightseeing tours by The Vega Group will introduce you to the local color—like the Garden District—and the areas top attractions. A great option for the whole family.

To make reservations, print the form at www.planning.org, fill it in, and send it by mail or fax with your payment information to The Vega Group. Space is limited and advance reservations and ticket purchases are required. The deadline for reservations, changes, cancellations, and requests for full refunds is March 11, 2010. See the reservation form for complete details.

If you have questions about a tour or have any special needs, contact The Vega Group at (504) 488-5222, Monday through Friday, 9:30 a.m.–5:00 p.m. (CDT), or by e-mail at apa2010@vega-group.com.

All tours will depart from and return to the Morial Convention Center. Tickets must be picked up at The Vega Group tour desk in the lobby area at least one hour prior to the tour departure time.

For sold-out tours, a first-come, first-served waitlist will be available at The Vega Group Tour Desk starting one hour prior to the tour departure time. If a tour does not meet the minimum number of guests required to operate, The Vega Group reserves the right to cancel the tour and issue a full refund.
